

Small Business Advantage Program (SmBA)

Doing more with less is a mantra we have become familiar with over the years. Combined with changes in operations and turn-over of staff, companies can be left vulnerable to compliance challenges that also impact their bottom line.

The SmBA Program is an EHS management service that lets companies be proactive and outsource a portion of their safety and environmental responsibilities so that when change arrives, your compliance programs won't skip a beat. SRM can provide these services to you for an affordable fixed monthly

Our Services

From permit applications, reporting and waste management to routine safety inspections, safety committees and training, our compliance team becomes part of your management team.

SRM's professionals will routinely and methodically perform routine compliance activities and maintain compliance documents for your facility. We also provide you with routine feedback and guidance regarding compliance challenges and how to best resolve them.

If you don't have a record of it, it didn't happen. SRM will ensure that your on-site paper and electronic compliance files are organized and accessible to your staff. We can also maintain duplicate electronic records offsite to ensure that your documentation is secure and available when you need it.

How to Get Started

The SmBA program begins with an onsite meeting to review your operations and perform a high level applicability assessment to determine the environmental and safety requirements that apply to you. After that we'll work with you to identify specific action items and priorities, and develop a proposal for an appropriate level of on-going support.
